The march into the capital by troops like those pictured at top was led by Gen. Pedro Ramirez, left center, who immediately proclaimed "collaboration with the American nations."—(International)

ESCAPE FROM JAIL,
FREE 20 MINUTES

PORTSMOUTH, June 5 — Three youths slugged two men and escaped from Scioto county jail last night but obtained only 20 minutes of freedom, Jailor Landon Ball reported.

Ball said the trio went into action as he entered the bullpen, struck him and Frank James, a cook who attempted to intervene, and fled only to be apprehended on a city street by police summoned by radio. Eight others in the bullpen declined to participate in the break, Ball reported.

Ball identified the three as: Harold Thompson, 19, charged with breaking and entering; J. P. McCarty, 19, charged with burglary, and an 18-year-old youth held pending investigation. All reside in Portsmouth.

To Red Cross Class

Red Cross certificates were awarded to 22 members of the staff assistants class at exercises Friday evening in the Memorial building, at which Lieut. Jean Craig, district WAAC recruiting officer, told of the important role women are playing in the war program.

Diplomas were presented by Albert Hanna after the class was presented by Miss Hazel Linn, Red Cross chapter secretary.

Musical included a piano solo by Thomas Crothers and a flute solo by Carol Kelley.

COURT RECESSES
MURDER HEARING

Rebuttal Witness Called After Redmelovich Testimony

LISBON, June 5.—Rebuttal testimony highlighted the second-degree murder trial of William Redmelovich, 56-year-old Serbian, for the slaying of Frank Ulrich, 35-year-old Croatian laborer, as the case was continued Friday afternoon until Monday.

Deputy Sheriff Chris Pusey, recalled to the stand by the state, testified that the revolver used in the crime showed evidence of having been freshly oiled when the weapon was turned over to the police.

The statement was offered by the state to refute testimony of the defendant that the cylinder of the gun would not turn and that the weapon had lain on a shelf in the garage at the Redmelovich property, since last November.

Redmelovich had testified, as the defense rested its case, that he had run to the garage for the weapon when he was threatened by Ulrich, a boarder in the home of Mrs. Frances Mae Porter, who occupied the Redmelovich property. The defendant had gone to the Porter home on the morning of May 5, after serving an eviction notice, to see if the tenants had vacated or if they were going to pay the rent.

At the conclusion of all testimony Friday afternoon, Judge Joel H. Sharp ordered a recess until Monday, June 7, when closing arguments will be made and the jury charged by the court before beginning deliberations.

Premier Arrives In London After Flight From North Africa

PLANE ESCORTED BY FIGHTER CRAFT

Invasion Talk, Meanwhile, Mounts In Pitch In British Capital

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, June 5.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill flew home today by way of North Africa from the Washington war council at which full accord was reached on a future Allied course on all fronts—an accord which was expected to be interpreted into action first with an invasion of Europe.

The prime minister, who saw Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in North Africa, landed at a British airfield at dawn and proceeded immediately to London to begin a series of conferences with members of his war cabinet.

Not only was his plane escorted by fighter craft on the latter stages of the journey but Churchill's flight was timed so the plane passed the Axis-patrolled Bay of Biscay by night, with no moon.

He was accompanied by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who flew from Britain to join him in the North Africa talks, and by Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the imperial general staff, who was with him at the Washington conferences with President Roosevelt and the British and American general staffs.

In North Africa Churchill also had what was described as a "most cordial" greeting with Gen. Charles De Gaulle and Gen. Henri Giraud, who earlier in the week settled their differences and set up a provisional French government under their joint leadership.

Churchill's homecoming coincided with mounting speculation that the Allied blow was about to fall upon Hitler's so-called European fortress.

Reaches High Pitch
The invasion talk, which has been the main topic of London newspapers, reached its highest pitch in this morning's press.

The Daily Mail, referring to the Allied aerial bombing of Italy and her Mediterranean outposts, featured a headline reading "Zero Hour in Battle for Bastion Islands."

The Italians, as well as the Germans, have been broadcasting reports of great Allied invasion preparations in the Mediterranean. Last night the anxious Rome radio broadcast a warning that "the Allied attack is coming" and called upon menaced Pantelleria to stand fast.

(There was some speculation the Germans were gunning for Churchill after the decision yesterday after the decision yesterday that the United Mine Workers' leadership announced today that the authorization to resume work beginning on Monday is limited to the period ending on June 20.)

Disclosing that the miners' retreat yesterday was not unconditional surrender, the UMW officers released a telegram dispatched to all local unions saying:

"The national policy committee, by unanimous vote, has authorized a return to work on Monday, June 7, up to and including June 20. This action was taken to protect your union and its membership. Let each

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 5.—Disaster on the home front was averted today as John L. Lewis instructed his 500,000 striking coal miners to obey President Roosevelt and go back to work Monday morning.

Indications from the coal fields were that full production would be underway again the first of the week.

Delay In Getting
No. 3 Ration Book
May Hamper Eating

The food panel of the Salem rationing board reminded persons today that next Thursday is the deadline for returning application cards for War ration book No. 3.

Families which fail to complete and mail the application card on time face the possibilities of being without the use of their new ration book when it is needed, V. R. Martin, food panel chairman, explained.

While it is true that the program for distributing No. 3 ration book contemplates that the head of every household will receive one of the blank cards through the mail, this is not guaranteed because of changes of address or other reasons beyond control of the central office, he said.

The responsibility for filling in and return of the application cards rests entirely with the household of individual who is to receive the book.

Any person who has not received an application card by Tuesday should call at the postoffice for a blank application card.

All information asked for on the card must be supplied and all names should be printed, not written.

Postmaster A. E. Beardmore called attention to the fact that many cards have been mailed bearing but one cent postage. All cards must bear three cents postage, otherwise they are returned to the sender, causing delay.

BOMBS COVER
BRINDISI AREA

Liberators Drop 125 Tons On Airdrome In Southeastern Italy

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 5.—Nearly 125 tons of bombs dropped from U. S. Liberators of the Middle East air forces smothered Grottaglie airdrome near Brindisi, in southeastern Italy, in a two-wave assault yesterday while air forces from Northwest Africa shuttled over Pantelleria, Sicily and Italy in their daily blows at Premier Mussolini's anti-invasion strongholds.

Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz' forces struck at Catanzaro, on the sole of the Italian boot 90 miles from the Messina strait and the most easterly point of Italy yet attacked from northwest Africa.

Both Catanzaro and Syracuse were attacked by incendiary-laden Wellingtons Thursday night.

Cairo dispatches said hangars and administration buildings at the large Grottaglie airdrome were covered with direct hits in the daylight raid. Large fires were left burning columns of smoke and explosions marked the mushrooming destruction. One entire section of the field was said to have been knocked out.

All the raiders returned safely, a United States communique said, although they were attacked by a formation of enemy fighters, four of which were shot down.

In Cairo, Col. Keith K. Compton of St. Joseph, Mo., who led the Crottaglie attack, said he rarely had seen more accurate bombing.

"There were scores of fires which sent great pillars of black smoke into the sky," he recalled, "we completely smothered the area with bursts."

Crewmen said a number of grounded aircraft were destroyed. An allied headquarters communique said yesterday's attack followed up assaults Thursday night on targets in Italy, Sicily and Pantelleria in which two planes were lost.

The communique also said enemy planes dropped bombs on the Algiers area last night, causing some casualties and damage, and that two enemy bombers were destroyed.

D. Lisbon, received a suspended 30-day jail sentence and lost his driving privileges for three months after pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving.

Declares Revolt Is Aimed At "Guaranteeing Safety of People"

PRO-AXIS LEADER
FRESCO ARRESTED

Pro-Democratic Papers Ask Compliance With Rio Resolution

(By Associated Press)
BUENOS AIRES, June 5.—A military council headed by Pro-Ally Gen. Arturo Rawson assumed governmental powers today in Argentina, last American state with diplomatic ties to the Axis, after overthrowing the isolationist, Castillo Regime, in a lightning revolt, and declaring martial law in the country.

The international significance of yesterday's bold stroke, Gen. Rawson and other military leaders in forcing President Ramon Castillo to flee to an Argentine warship still was not clear, but there were these factors:

1. One of the first acts of the provisional government was the arrest of a prominent pro-Axis nationalist, Manuel Fresco.
2. One of several proclamations said to have been issued by Rawson pledged Argentina's cooperation in a "true American union of collaboration and compliance with our international pact."
3. Pro-Democratic papers published an announcement, said to emanate from the revolutionaries, pledging compliance with a resolution adopted by the conference of American foreign ministers at Rio de Janeiro recommending that all American republics break with the Axis. These newspapers also called the revolt "Democratic in character."

Domestic Issues Hinted
Some reports, however, indicated the objectives of the revolutionaries were largely domestic.

The revolt, with Rawson leading some 7,000 troops into Buenos Aires yesterday and taking control of the governmental offices abandoned by the fleeing President Castillo, occurred on the day the conservatives were to name a candidate to succeed Castillo.

Rawson, himself, addressing a crowd beneath the government house balcony, said his movement was "without any political leaning" and was aimed at "guaranteeing the safety of our people and our nation" because the Castillo administration had failed to respect "our institutions and culture."

Some sources implied that the revolt was to break a stranglehold the former regime had obtained on orderly processes of government through alleged ballot box manipulations. Rawson issued a written statement saying "moral corruption" marked the former regime.

Castillo's "policy of prudence," under which he had adhered to a strict neutrality and kept Argentina open to Axis diplomatic representations and other observers, was reported as widely unpopular. Under a "state of siege" decree Castillo had imposed a ban upon war discussion in the country.

Gen. Pedro Ramirez, who had been Castillo's war minister, Gen. Juan Giovanni, an unidentified naval officer, and Rawson were said to comprise the military junta now fulfilling the function of government.

Under Rawson's signature martial law was declared late yesterday throughout the country and a legal holiday was called for today.

LABOR AND THE GOVERNMENT

As long as the Roosevelt administration could play for organized labor's favor at the expense of employers and the opposition, it could keep friction at a minimum.

But now that organized labor's favor must be sought at the direct expense of the administration's own policies as a wartime government, everything is different. The friction is becoming terrific.

The fracas with John L. Lewis marks a climax. There is good reason to believe organized labor now will be forced to revert to its former position of taking neither party's unquestioning support for granted.

That will be an improvement over the wholly natural arrangement of the last 10 years whereby organized labor, right or wrong, believed it could depend on the Roosevelt administration for a clean bill of health.

All the warnings of the consequences of such an arrangement have been justified by an epidemic of strikes—the greatest and latest in defiance of the government, itself. At last the Roosevelt administration is confronted with one strike it cannot condone. For once it has shared the employers' headache over labor relations under an anything-goes policy.

The parting with organized labor on a basis of divided loyalty will be sweet sorrow, but among the shrewder politicians there will be a good many tears. The "solid labor vote" that has been talked about so often since the advent of the New Deal is largely an illusion. It couldn't save Frank Murphy in heavily unionized Michigan in 1938 and it couldn't carry Michigan for President Roosevelt in 1940. It didn't save the New Deal in Ohio in 1942. The truth is, as the Democratic party now is discovering, that organized labor can't be held in line. Only the solid south can be held in line, and even it slips sometimes.

HUMANITY IN AERIAL WAR

An Associated Press recording of a Rome broadcast purporting to quote Pope Pius XII in an appeal to the belligerents "to respect the laws of humanity in the aerial war" is believable.

The Pope's position, if reported truthfully, is easy to understand. It is a fact that United Nations and United States bombers are bringing the inhumanity of aerial warfare to the doorways and living quarters of Italians and Germans. Later, the same thing will be done to the Japanese. While civilians will not be primary targets, thousands of them will be killed, as thousands already have been killed. The Pope cannot condone slaughter.

Aerial war has been turned full force against the savages who first looted it on helpless Spaniards, Chinese, Poles, Ethiopians, French, Yugoslavs and Greeks. The Italians who thought it was fun to blow up Ethiopians, the Germans who thought it would be only a matter of weeks until the British begged for mercy, the Japanese who burned China's cities and slaughtered hordes of Chinese are going to be given a compelling reason for respecting the laws of humanity in aerial war. They are going to be bombed.

Two wrongs still do not make a right, but the Germans, Italians and Japanese never thought there would be two wrongs when the war began. They had been assured the aerial warfare was going to be one-sided. It is a serious miscalculation on their part, as they know now.

FRENCH UNITY NEVER EXISTED

Our native preoccupation with politics and political doctrine can be blamed for an unfortunate slander on France. Certain leaders and figureheads of that unhappy and disorganized nation are being accused of failure to achieve unity. This is supposed to reflect discredit on them and, to some extent, their countrymen.

The fact is that France never achieved unity in its happiest days. It was a republic, and in republics there is no unity. There is, instead, a continuous difference of opinion and a contest for supremacy that insures against any single faction getting a monopoly on authority. Unity, in France and in the United States, is a word that all too often signifies nothing but someone's ambition to create a totalitarian regime, the kind of unity the United Nations are determined to outlaw.

Instead of being disturbed because several Frenchmen named Giraud and de Gaulle are having trouble seeing eye to eye, perhaps it might be better to meditate on additional evidence that Frenchmen, who were among the first to honor human liberty above all else, are still behaving like Frenchmen—which has nothing whatever to do with the kind of unity politicians talk about.

COMMON COURTESY

While the point must remain unsettled because too much evidence can be brought to bear from both directions, it is interesting to wonder whether common courtesy has declined in wartime, or whether it has stood still while the need for common courtesy was increasing.

Many will favor the latter position, on the supposition that all who are skilled in the practice of common courtesy are continuing it, while a great many who do not even understand the phrase suddenly have been thrust into situations that make their ignorance, or perhaps their disposition, unpleasantly conspicuous.

The opposing view is that the essential violence and ruthlessness of wartime are driving into retreat the outer forms of common courtesy, thus accounting for tradesmen who forget to be grateful for patronage, clerks who skip the niceties of salesmanship, adolescents who grow careless of the privileges that belong to their elders and all others who fail to take advantage of the courteous word and gesture to ease the human relationship.

Perhaps it is a little of each. On one score, at least, there can be no doubt: That a little more courtesy in all things would make a lot less trouble when so many nerves are frayed and so many tempers are jumpy.

EYES NOT CURED BY EXERCISES

Clendening Labels Such Claims Nonsense

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
"The Art of seeing" is the title of a book by Mr. Aldous Huxley, published a few months ago. I have enjoyed Mr. Huxley's other books and thought this might be a characteristically sensitive account of how he learned to find hidden meanings and angles in the common sights of the world around us.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

What I actually found was a shock and a disillusionment. Mr. Huxley had the misfortune to suffer in his youth from a serious eye affection which forced him to leave Eton college and from which he was almost blind for three or four years. He made his way through Oxford by reading with a magnifying glass. He states that he had keratitis punctata, a set of spotted opacities on the cornea. This left him with one eye just capable of light perception and the other with five per cent of normal vision.

That he achieved such a degree of literary success as he did with such a handicap is, of course, remarkable and creditable to his will power and inner vision, for inner vision he has aplenty.

A few years ago he fell in with the teachings of William H. Bates, a self-appointed healer whose German followers have not hesitated to compare him with Christ, who claimed to cure glaucoma, nearsightedness, far-sightedness, astigmatism, old-age eyes, which require reading neuraigia, cataract, syphilis of the eye, and central blindness.

Bates' method depends on exercises of two of the six muscles by which we can, by voluntary control, move the eyeballs to the right and left and up and down, and obliquely.

They are attached to the outside of the eyeball, not to the lens, which accommodates our vision to far objects or near objects. Nor do they change the shape of the cornea, which has to do with astigmatism, nor the length of the eyeball, which has to do with near- and far-sightedness. Besides these exercises Bates had a number of other manoeuvres.

Now it is understandable how a man with Huxley's disabilities must have suffered great distress and repeated fatigue in the use of his eyes. Some of Bates' treatments would naturally help to rest such eyes; for instance, "palming," which consists simply in covering the eyes with the palms for a while and "shifting," which is moving the focus from one thing to another. These are methods of mental, ocular and bodily relaxation.

Unscientific and Harmful

But to suggest that they or any of the other exercises relieve poor vision and eyestrain due to poor curvature of the cornea and lens is not only absurd but wicked, because people who could be instantly relieved by glasses are gulled into undergoing a long set of exercise training which not only does not improve their vision, but gives them serious eyestrain.

That a man, the grandson of T. H. Huxley, one of the most scientific writers of the last generation, should sponsor such nonsense is indeed a discouraging sign for our civilization.

H. M.:—I have heard of a treatment which will cure color blindness. Do you believe it works?
Answer: No. Color blindness is a congenital defect due to the absence of certain cells in the retina and no method of treatment is known that will make those cells grow.

L. W.:—Which contains more calories, white bread or 100 per cent whole wheat bread?
Answer: Calories per 100 grams: White bread, 248, whole wheat, 241. This is a negligible difference.

C. E. E.:—What are the causes and remedies for sciatica? Is it a nervous disease or rheumatism?
Answer: Sciatica is a neuralgia of the sciatic nerve, which is brought on by the same things that cause rheumatism. Treatment consists in the use of heat and massage and is generally successful, although the condition is stubborn.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

SAN DIEGO—Donald H. Gordon has written the board of county supervisors complaining of the lack of mountain lions in the county. He thanked the board for having heeded the request of farmers to free the county from coyotes which eat their chickens, but complained that because there were not enough mountain lions, which feed on gophers, the latter had transformed great green meadows in the mountains into dry, parched waste lands.

SAN DIEGO—Tom K. Choy, importing firm owner, has been arrested by federal officers on a charge of failing to take out a license for the sale of $5 a bottle of a Chinese liquor in which mountain liquor, Chinese herbs and squirrels, entered as ingredients. Choy failed to reveal just what role the squirrels played in the concoction but guaranteed that his product was better than a well-known Chinese liquor.

DURING the first year of our toughest war, we—

Trained a lot of men—made a lot of fighting tools—built a lot of shipping.

And to help pay for it all, we bought War Bonds. Altogether, 50 millions of us bought War Bonds. And nearly 30 millions of us started putting, on the average 10 percent of our pay into War Bonds every payday through the Pay-roll Savings Plan.

That was a good start. But, it was ONLY a start. What we did in '42 is not enough for '43!

We've got to do more fighting this year. We've got to do more building, more training, more shipping,— and more saving.

We've got to buy MORE WAR Bonds.

YOUNGSTOWN

THAT MAN IS MINE by May Christie

SYNOPSIS
Beautiful Ann Foster was worried when she learned the sales force at "Marks-Park Avenue" was to be reduced after the Christmas holidays. Julia, her practical minded sister, an airline stewardess on the New York-Miami run, per- sistent encourages her to marry wealthy Vince Ogden, but Ann does not love him. At their small apart- ment she is greeted by Vince and Julia in festive holiday mood. For- getting her worries, Ann joins Vince and Julia on a tour of the night spots. The following day at La- Guardia Airport, Julia introduces Ann to Jim Brent, handsome pilot officer en route to Florida to train cadets. Later, Ann is offered the opportunity to work at the Miami Beach branch of "Marks- Park Avenue." Vince, whose yacht, "The Pelican," is moored off Mi- ami, accompanies her on the South-bound train. The manager, impressed with Ann's beauty en- gages her as a model. Ann renews her acquaintance with Jim Brent at Mrs. Avery Willard's War Rel- ief Tea.

CHAPTER FOUR
The band struck up. "Let's dance, Vince, shall we?" Ann suggested kindly, for maybe she might have hurt him, under that grin he wore. "And it was sweet of you to send me those gorgeous orchids," she added, as they set off in a fox-trot. "Wish I were they," he said, an ardent gleam in his eyes, and hold- ing her much too tightly for her liking. "Don't, Vince. You'll ruin them," she chided. "Please don't be a bo- constrictor!" "Whoosh! I could never hold you tight enough, you beautiful child! If you'd let me, I'd like to—" Here, they collided with another couple. Annoyed with Vince for hav- ing over-imbibed, Ann looked vex- edly and apologetically around, to meet the vivid gray eyes of the darkly handsome Jim Brent, who was dancing with Mrs. Avery Willard. By the faintly cynical expression in those eyes, Ann guessed that he had overheard. The more Vince had hidden himself in love with her, the more his voice assumed the be- low of the mating bull. "Do you know Jim Brent?" she found herself asking, as Vince swept her on and away. "Yep. He sure has a mission in his soul! Looks like a museum piece!" chuckled Vince. "What on earth do you mean?" asked Ann.

War Workers Pack Detroit Beyond Limit Of Capacity

DETROIT—This city—the heart of democracy's arsenal—will soon rival Washington as the most over- crowded metropolis in the nation. While magazine and newspaper articles have told the story of the war-jammed national capital, fac- tory workers have flocked unpub- lished into the Motor City, increas- ing its population by nearly 20,000 a month. So many have come that 99 1/2 per cent of Detroit's dwelling units are full, according to a recently completed post office survey. City Near 3 Million
In the last year alone, it was estimated, war industries added 150,000 to the city's metropolitan population, boosting it to 2,790,000. This, despite Detroit's loss of some 150,000 men to the fighting forces since hostilities began. Federal housing projects have done little to dent an appalling housing shortage, and Detroit's transportation and recreational fac- ilities—designed for a far smaller city—are creaking under the strain. Apartment hunting is a night- mare. Families which move into the sprawling factory town from quiet- er, less crowded communities, find locating a home is a deadly serious game they have to play with thou- sands of invisible competitors. Few Flats Available
The process usually boils down to getting a room in a hotel or boarding house and haunting the newsstands, waiting for "bull dog" early editions of Detroit's three daily papers. A quick survey of the classified ad section shows pages of "help wanted" and "apartments wanted" but perhaps a half-dozen apart- ments to rent. Consulting a street guide reveals four of the six are too far from one's war plant or are in an unsavory neighborhood. The apartment-seeker chooses be- tween one of the two remaining prospects, hops into his car or taxi to make a dash for it. But he doesn't win. The landlady invariably informs him, "It was rented just 15 min- utes ago." So he returns to his hotel—where his bill is mounting—to wait for the next newspaper to appear. There's little use canvass- ing apartment houses, he has learned, for they have long wait- ing lists. Ways Out Studied
So bad is the housing shortage that two Detroit real estate firms suggested vacant stores be con- verted into homes. Another pro- posal was to turn the garages of motor magnates estates into living quarters. At the Willow Run bomber plant, it's even worse. Wayne county offi- cials are eyeing a nearby 200-bed hospital as a possible dormitory, and "dorms" at Michigan State Normal College in Ypsilanti may be used to house women war workers. The unmarried war worker who comes to the auto capital—and he constitutes only 20 per cent of those arriving—can usually find a fairly respectable "sleeping room," but it's the man with a family who pro- vides the headaches for housing of- ficials.

Walrus Most Maligned Plane But British Fleet Loves It

BY CLINTON B. CONGER
U. S. Navy War Correspondent
WITH THE BRITISH HOME FLEET—Meet the Spitfire's older brother, the Supermarine Walrus, general utility plane of the British Navy. When you've known one long enough, you needn't be so formal; it will answer to the name of Shagbat, Flying Bedstead, Steam Chicken or Purser's Spitfire ("Pursers" in Royal Navy terminology equals our Army's "G. I."). And the Walrus has been called by harsher terms as well. The Walrus has the body lines of a soulful cod, completely under- standing from a pair of Wright Broth- ers' wings and a maze of enough wiring and struts to trap any sea- gull who might find his way in be- tween the wings. In flight it re- sembles a prehistoric leather- winged pterodactyl out of "King Kong" or Conan Doyle's "Lost World." It is believed to be the monster offspring of the mismatch- ing of a rowboat and an absent- minded Gremlin. Transcendentalists have maintained it is the material- ized form of Gremlins sometimes as- sume when they become visible. All right, go on, insult the Wal- rus. Later we'll get around to the reasons why the Fleet Air Arm swears by and at the most mal- igned plane in the world. But that requires facts, and somehow facts seem shabby and earthbound com- pared to anything as whimsical as a Walrus. I've gone on antisubmarine pa- trool in a Walrus, squeezing past pilot and observer and wedging my- self in as inactive rear-gunner among the thousands of gadgets that go into the Shagbat's role of "utility plane." A crane dumped us ignominiously over the side; Walrus is rarely catapulted when their ship is at anchor. Fell Like Motor Boat
There was a thunderous roar from the single pusher engine be- tween the wings as we taxied into position. In bare seconds we were "on the step," tail in the air, while the aquatic-minded Walrus made up its mind to be airborne. Briefly, I felt I was in a racing outboard motorboat. Then, almost as soon as an autogiro, we lifted off and skimmed sedately along a few yards above the surface. Somehow it felt more like lighter-than-air than a warplane. The Shagbat's favorite altitude seems to be below 1,000 feet al- though they are encountered well up in the 'teen-thousands. It de- pends on the mission. Spotting gunfire, a Walrus might stay well up to avoid enemy ack-ack fire. Hunting subs, the Walrus can hover over the surface like an angry sea- gull coming to rest. Walrus history, because of its note of whimsy, consists more of unconfirmed anecdote than docu- mented record. Anecdote credits four German fighters to the bats. One victory was in Norwegian wa- ters, where a Messerschmitt was said to have found a Walrus flying so slowly that the Nazi could never get in more than two or three rounds per attack. The Walrus gunners kept their guns on the ME as long as it was in range and, after half an hour of ring-around-the- rosey shot it down. The same scene is supposed to have happened over the Channel. The German pilot, told by his res- cuers that he had been downed by a Walrus, blushed, shook his head frantically and screamed "Nein! Nein! Schipffuer!" all the way back to port. Jerry Number Three was am- bushed in 1940 by a Walrus which had patrolled one Norwegian fjord so much that every detail was me- morized. Chivvied by a Messer- schmitt, the Walrus flew up the fjord straight at a set of telephone wires and ducked nimbly under- neath, while the speedier, less ma- neuverable fighter flew into the wires and crashed. Didn't Signal Turn
Number Four is similar enough so that it may be an attempted im- provement on the story. During the Narvik campaign, it claims, an at- tacked Walrus flew straight down Main Street at the town hall, but Here's why the Royal Navy sticks to the Shagbat: Rugged, dependable, perfect for observation and patrol purposes, the Walrus is so highpowered that it can climb faster than most sea- planes, and take off or land in very short distances—as little as a quar- ter of the normal carrier flight deck. It is fast enough for all its uses, and slow by the very fact of all those uses. Depth charges, smoke floats, wireless equipment, signaling lamps, cameras, naviga- tional instruments, spotting instru- ments, landing gear, extra men for extra purposes and extra strength of construction all slow it down. An operationally-equipped Walrus resembles an overloaded pack- mule and can actually stand still at landing speed against a strong head wind. Above all, the ungainly Walrus is the last plane that will be grounded by bad weather.

ERIE, Pa.—The policy of going directly to the farmer, saving them trips into town, aided Barney Weaver to weather the advent of the automobile, which spelled "curtains" for most blacksmiths. He is now one of the few remaining members of that trade, specializing in the re- pair of farm machinery and shoe- ing about 50 horses regularly.

TAX PROGRAM IN CALIFORNIA CUT

Legislature Enacts Bill Calling For $67,000,000 Slice In Levies

(By United Press)
SACRAMENTO, Cal.—California residents were a little less gloomy today over the prospect of increased federal taxes since enactment of a program for a $67,000,000 reduction in state levies in the next two years. The tax reduction was remark- able also because it was accom- plished at the same time that the maximum payment to the state's old age pensioners was increased from $40 to $50 per month. Sponsored by Earl Warren, Re- publican governor who took office last January, and calculated to give relief to all taxpaying groups, the tax cut program takes a half cent off the 3 per cent state sales tax, lowers rates and increases exemp- tions under the personal income tax law and grants a 15 per cent re- duction in payments by banks and corporations. The sales tax reduction goes into effect July 1, but the income and corporation rate changes will first apply to 1943 income on which the tax is collected next year.

Effective For Two Years
Income tax changes will drop the top rate of 15 per cent on net in- comes above $150,000, highest in the nation, to 6 per cent over $40,- 000. Personal exemptions are in- creased from $1,000 to $2,000 for single persons and from $2,500 to $3,500 for married couples. The reductions and other more liberal financial policies were made possible by a state surplus which reached $126,000,000 on April 1 and which would have amounted to an estimated $250,000,000 by July 1, 1945. The tax reductions and pen- sion raise are effective for only two years. Booming industrial activity brought on by the war has been largely responsible for the increase in state income. Another $85,000,000, to $75,000,- 000 will be siphoned from the state treasury by the $50-a-month pen- sion law. Effective July 1, the measure also relieves most rela- tives of pensioners of partial re- sponsibility for their support and, as a means of local tax reduction, takes from the counties half of their share of pension costs.

43 Million To Be 'Frozen'
California has approximately 153,- 000 persons on old age pension rolls and state finance officers estimate the number may increase by 25,000 because of the increased payment. A third point of the financial program sponsored by Governor Warren was earmarking of around $85,000,000 for the postwar use, fu- ture bond redemption and as a re- serve against war emergencies. Approximately $43,000,000 in tax collections will be "frozen" for con- struction of buildings and other postwar projects, $25,000,000 will be held for civilian relief in case of an actual war emergency or bomb- ing raid, and $16,000,000 goes into a fund for bond redemption. Meantime, ordinary government- al costs were cut sharply with the budget for normal expenditures set at $451,000,000 compared to actual spending of about $35,000,000 in the previous two years.

SACRAMENTO, Cal. Members of the armed services have been given free use of California streams under a law exempting them from the re- quirement for state fishing licenses to take game fish. The law, passed recently by the legislature, will be in effect only for the duration of the war.

AZUSA, Cal.—The spirit of the heroes of Horatio Alger's novels still holds sway in the United States. Orlov H. Mohr, 31, has just become publisher of a local newspaper, where he began as printer's devil, having leased the paper from its present owner.

DISCUSS CAUSES OF ABSENTEEISM

Physicians Profess To See Mental Ills In Many Cases

DETROIT—Emotional conflicts of war workers—relatively ignored by industrial medicine—may cause absenteeism, inferior output, high sickness rate, and a large labor turnover, two Cincinnati psychiatrists warned in Detroit recently.

Pointing out that most of the efforts of war plant doctors have been directed toward the safety and physical health of workers, the doctors emphasized that recognition of emotional troubles is of greatest importance today because of the intense production schedules and the manpower shortage.

The medical men, Drs. John Romano and Milton Rosenbaum of the University of Cincinnati and Cincinnati General hospital, addressed a group of the nation's top-flight psychiatrists who met in Detroit.

Many Underlying Reasons
Noise in war plants, the huge size of many of the plants, rivalry between the sexes, sleeping difficulties of workers on the night shift, and conflicts caused by racial problems are among the psychological headaches for war plant officials, the doctors said.

In addition, many emotional problems peculiar to women have entered the picture with the rush of this sex to the assembly lines, they said.

The trouble with diagnosing and treating these mental and emotional snarls, the Cincinnati men cautioned, is that this type of distress may not reveal itself directly in psychologic symptoms, but may run the gamut from absenteeism to occupational ties—face-twitchings caused by inner conflicts.

Emotional Quirks Appear
Little understood, said the doctors, is the fact that emotional distress may be expressed in the form of impersonal or "somatic" symptoms—fatigue, listlessness, phobia, hysterical behavior, and feelings of discrimination or depreciation toward fellow workers.

To make it difficult for the psychiatrist, the employee who is anxious to change his department or job may unconsciously register his complaint in the form of a "gripe" about the noise or poor lighting in his plant. He may actually think that is what troubles him.

The immensity of modern war factories may cause an emotional quirk in the shy, handicapped or only moderately intelligent worker, said the doctors. These people are overwhelmed by the size of the building, feel insignificant, or fear they are losing their personal identities. Romano and Rosenbaum stated.

While some female workers who have masculine traits, and can out-produce the men around them, may develop inner conflicts because they fear jealousy on the part of the men, other women go to the opposite extreme, the scientists reported.

"Many women utilize, capitalize, and exploit their femininity in that although they are supposed to do a man's job, they expect more favors and privileges because they are women."

"Gold-bricking," observed the doctors.

A Psalm For Times Like These
"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea;
Though the waters thereof roar and be troubled, though the mountains shake with the swelling thereof. Selah.
There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God, the holy place of the tabernacles of the Most High.
God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved; God shall help her, and that right early.
The Lord hath raised the kingdoms; he hath moved; He uttered His voice, the earth melted.
The Lord of host is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge. Selah.
Come, behold the works of the Lord, what desolation He hath made in the earth.
He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; He breaketh bow, and cutteth the spear; He burneth the chariot in the fire.
Be still, and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth.
The Lord of host is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge; Selah.

Morning worship service, 11 a. m.; sermon topic, "Heaven Gazers."

"Ascension day was last Thursday. It is 40 days after Easter. That is the length of time that our Saviour remained on earth after His Resurrection from the dead. This time was sufficient for Him to prove beyond any doubt that He had indeed conquered over death and grave. The Ascension of our Lord is evidence that His mission and work on earth were completed. His Kingdom was established. There must be cultivated in His disciples, the spirit of responsibility. This could hardly be done when they were so dependent upon the Christ. He had stated that He must go away. He must return to His heavenly home."

"This departure of Christ, meant that His presence is no more physically visible. Yet through His spiritual presence, He is able to be with His disciples wherever they may be. When Christ ascended into heaven, the disciples could hardly refrain from giving their undivided attention to the place where He had entered the heavenly Kingdom. The advice and counsel of the angels was that they were not to remain on this holy mount, but were to return to their tasks of the Kingdom. Christians are to be concerned about the affairs of God's Kingdom here on earth. Hazy idealism is not to claim the strength of Christian people. There are tasks to be done on this earth."—Rev. Keister.

Nurseries Solving Orphans' Problem

DENVER — Great Britain can show America a thing or two when it comes to successfully combating juvenile delinquency, now rampant in this country, according to Miss Maude M. Boston.

Miss Boston, a British teacher and lecturer, in Denver on a tour of United States, said that England's growing children receive an AA-1 priority over all other "survival resources" of the nation.

Prominent in England in starting day nurseries for children of parents employed in defense plants, Miss Boston is in this country to assist in starting a similar program in centers where "war orphans" have become one of the chief delinquency problems.

"The day nursery," Miss Boston said, "has proved to be the solution of the serious problem created by the drawing of thousands of mothers into war industry."

The care of school age children and the problem of delinquency raised by wartime dislocations are met by a common sense provision which is carried out in the administration of the draft of women.

"All women in England between 18 and 45 are registered, and those in the 18 and 30 year class are subject to the draft and may be assigned to noncombat jobs in the military forces," she said.

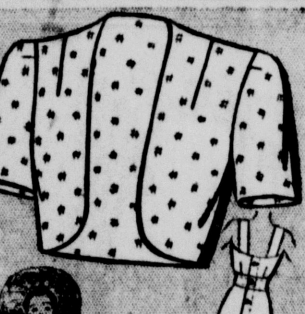

"Others up to 45 are required to accept war work in factories or elsewhere when assigned."

"Mothers with children under 14 are exempt from the draft, and this is carried further than that. Before any such mother can be accepted for a job in industry of any kind, she must present evidence to the labor exchange that provision has been made for the proper care of her children, either in the government or otherwise."

No second chance...no other choice

FOR THOSE WHO FALL and freeze on the lime-covered floors of the cattle cars that carry them to German labor camps—there is no other choice.

For the little children of Tepelini and Salonika and Athens who wait with swollen stomachs for the food ship that never arrives, there is nothing else to do—but wait.

For the Russian peasant with no choice but to burn his home before the Nazis reached it; for the Chinese of Nanking who suffered the terrorism of the Jap; for all of those in nameless graves and numberless cells—for all of them—there was no second chance, no other choice.

But for you—a choice still remains. For you—among all the peoples of the world, the road to freedom is still clear.

Never before have we been able to measure the price of freedom for ourselves and our children in such tangible terms. Will you help to keep the road to freedom open? Will you invest—all you can—in War Bonds?

It's not so much to ask. Many of us are making more money than we have for years. The things we'd like to buy with that money are scarce—or unavailable. So, we're asked to loan money at good interest—$4 for every $3 when the Bonds mature. Money to help pay for the war—keep prices down—provide peacetime jobs and peacetime goods and a generally decent world for all of us when the war is won.

Chances are you're already in the Payroll Savings Plan—buying War Bonds—doing your bit. But don't stop there. Raise your sights! Do your best!

Sheens Down East End Clubbers In No-Hit, No-Run Clash

McGEE'S HURLING TURNS BACK FOES FOR SEVEN FRAMES

Paxsons Swamp Metzgers; Bliss and Recs Winners In Class A

Class B league performers took the spotlight in softball competition last night as Mouse (Fibber) McGee, doing the hurling chores for the Sheens, chuckled the first no-hit, no-run game of the still youthful season, the Sheens blanking the East Enders, 12 to 0.

McGee's mates combined their own offensive abilities for a total of 12 solid clouts, with the Mouse, himself, getting three for three. The Sheens scored one run each in the second and third and two in the fourth and it was still a ball game, but the Sheens broke through in the sixth with a five-run barrage to remove any question of doubt.

As the Paxsons walloped the Metzgers, 15 to 1, Horning of the winners turned in a neat pitching job, too. He limited the Metzgers to two blows while the Paxsons were pouncing out 13.

Both games in the Class A division were contests with the Bliss blanking the Bombers, 2 to 0, and the Recreation winning from the Scotts, 4 to 1.

In each case the losers did the most hitting, but couldn't collect on it.

Pitcher Bennett of the Bombers delivered a great job, holding Bliss to three hits. His own team poked out five but couldn't score. The Scotts scored in the opening frame and held that margin until the fifth when the Recs broke through with a four-run attack that sewed up the game. The Scotts outlived the Recs, 9 to 5.

The box scores:

Young Pittsburgh Fighter Is Boomed For Conn's Crown

(By United Press)

PITTSBURGH—Johnny Ray, the man who "made" Billy Conn the fighter he is, has it all figured out. Joe Louis is the present heavyweight titleholder. After him comes Conn and then—well, Johnny has a pink-cheeked youngster named Charles Francis Waters who, he says, will pick up the purple when it drops from Conn's shoulders.

At the present writing, Waters hasn't had a pro fight. In fact, he hasn't come any closer to the beating profession than a gymnast and a ringside seat. But Johnny took a gander at the kid's left and immediately got his signature on the dotted line.

"Waters is only 19, but he's 6 feet, 1 inch and goes 190 pounds," Ray smiled. "Right now he looks better to me than Billy Conn did at the same stage in his career." But before anyone could accuse him of treason, he hastily added: "Not that I think there is, or ever will be, a better fighter than Billy. But here's a fellow who will take his place when he's through fighting."

Then Johnny dropped a hint of things to come.

"I'm going to let you in on something. Billy Conn is going to have just two more fights and then he's going to quit the ring."

"Both will be with Joe Louis. In the first he's going to win the heavyweight championship and in the second he's going to beat Louis again just to prove it wasn't a fluke. Then this fellow is going to take over."

Waters admits to Chicago as his home town. Right now, he's a naval cadet at Notre Dame, where he played sixth string center on the freshman football team.

According to Johnny's story, Waters got the fighting bug after reading of Conn's successes and near-successes. He wrote Ray and arranged for the latter to watch him work out. Johnny's only comment was:

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, June 5. — Ship-shape and navy fashion: At the Georgia pre-flight school they've put in a few football rules that the boys seem to like. Instead of four quarters, regimental games are played in two halves and play is resumed after the intermission at the spot and down where the first half ended. Entire games are played without time out and they say that those games without any delays are really something to watch.

SECRET PRACTICE

Just before the Giants-Pirates game Thursday, a New York baseball scribe wandered into the Pittsburgh dressing room, where Manager Frank Frisch detected him looking at a blackboard chart telling just how to pitch to each Giant batter. "Hey, you," roared Onkle Franz, "do you think I want you to go back and tell those fellows what their weaknesses are? Some of them don't know yet what they can't hit."

SCRAP COLLECTION

Will Harridge, the American league Prexy, says he can't understand what has happened to Saturday baseball in recent years. It used to be that Saturday crowds were second only to Sundays, but they've dropped off until they are just like any other week day. Incidentally, Harridge figures the week-day gatherings will pick up as soon as the weather settles down and the teams start playing off those 40-odd double headers that have piled up. Although West Virginia U. has lost all but three of last season's 54-player squad and three fifths of its coaching staff, the Mountaineers are going ahead with plans to play next fall.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

Ensign Niles Kinnick, former Brigham Young quarterback, writing to Lee Goates of the Salt Lake Desert News: "You little realize back there on the job what it means to the men in the service to follow athletic games through their home newspapers. If managing editors understood this, they wouldn't be slashing the sports page to smithereens."

Fight Results

NEW YORK — Chalky Wright, 125. Los Angeles, knocked out Phil Terranova, 124, New York (5); Bobby Ruffin, 134½, New York, and Terry Young, 138½, New York, drew (8).

SAN DIEGO — Lupe Gonzalez, 135½, Mexico City, outpointed Aldo Spoldi, 138.

The legal bureau of the Army is known as the Judge Advocate General's Department.

All-American Niles Kinnick Is Killed In Action

Ensign Niles Kinnick, former Iowa All-American football star, who has been reported killed in action, is shown above as he appeared as a grid and cage star at Iowa. Kinnick, great halfback in 1939 when he won All-American rating and also received the Heisman trophy as the "grid player of the year," became a naval air cadet in 1941 and won his wings at a Florida training station. This year he was assigned to duty on an aircraft carrier, according to his parents, who revealed navy department disclosure of his death.

Mort Cooper Allows One Hit As Cards Beat Phillies 5-0

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

A few weeks earlier in this baseball season, St. Louis fans were audibly worried about the report Mort Cooper had a sore arm. Their world champions were trailing the hated Brooklyn Dodgers in the National league race, Cooper had taken a couple of sound shellackings and the Cardinal customers figured there wasn't much hope without the full-time services of the big fellow who won 22 games and lost only seven last year.

Well, the Cards still are second by a half game, but if Cooper still has a sore arm, Manager Billy Southworth probably wishes that all his other pitchers would go out and get ones just like it.

For Big Mort pitched his second successive one-hit game last night to beat the Phillies, 5 to 0. He had done the same stunt against Brooklyn Monday. Mort didn't allow a hit until Jimmy Wasdell singled in the eighth, he gave no walks and he whiffed five.

The only reason the Cards remained in second place after that showing was that the pace-setting Dodgers drove Paul Derringer to cover with a seven-run first inning and went on to pile up 23 hits for an 18 to 5 triumph over the last-place Chicago Cubs.

Pirates, Tigers Climb

Meanwhile, winning streaks carried the Pittsburgh Pirates into third place in the National league

Damaged By Storm

NEWARK, June 5.—Several houses were reported damaged at Newark, Granville and Buckeye lake last night by a wind and rain storm. Power lines and trees were felled on the Denison university campus at Granville.

DRIVERS, DOCKMEN
GO BACK TO JOBS

TOLEDO, June 5.—More than 150 truck drivers and dockmen of the Liberty Highway Co., on strike since Tuesday, returned to their jobs last night. Ninety iron workers out of work three days are scheduled to return to work in the Burt Foundry Co. Monday.

The drivers and dockmen last night ratified a work agreement which was agreed upon by officials of the company and Teamsters and Chauffeurs union, AFL.

Capt. T. C. Prall, industrial relations officer in the Fifth corps area transportation zone, told the group he was interested in resuming movement of vital war materials, which the firm hauls almost exclusively.

Officials of the foundry and the CIO United Automobile Workers also reached an agreement. Production was resumed in various departments of the National Supply Co., Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., Toledo Steel Products Co. and the aviation division of the Electric Auto-lite Co.

member cooperate with this policy.

"By order of the national policy committee."

The telegram was signed by President John L. Lewis, Vice President John O'Leary and Thomas Kennedy, secretary treasurer.

Although the message did not use the word truce, the effect of the June 20 limitation appeared to be the equivalent of a truce.

their own ungranted and long deferred claims for justice and equity," Lewis said in announcing the back-to-work decision.

Raps War Labor Board
The 63-year-old labor leader, central figure in countless wrangles with management, government and union colleagues, took one more rap at the War Labor board as he yielded to Mr. Roosevelt's command.

His announcement followed closely a telegram from Interior Secretary Ickes expecting that "you will direct the members of the United Mine Workers to return to work". Ickes has been operating the mines since May 1 when President Roosevelt ordered them taken over by the government.

"The solid fuels administration (Ickes) is a duly constituted agent of the government and we desire to cooperate with him," said Lewis. "We have the assurance of the President that as soon as the mine workers return, the disposition of the dispute will forthwith proceed."

The miners are demanding $2 a day more—representing what they say is payment for the amount of time they use traveling underground, the old portal-to-portal issue. The operators offered approximately 80 cents to $1. Lewis turned that down, then suggested a temporary agreement at $1.50 which the producers refused to accept.

Lewis' use of the term "forthwith" pertaining to bargaining raised a singular situation for the War Labor board. Negotiations were scheduled to resume at 10 a. m. today.

Yet they should not proceed under the WLB's dictum that any parley over wage dispute while a strike is in progress is "coercive". This strike has been called off, but not until Monday.

Nevertheless, it was expected that some bargaining spade work could be done immediately on the theory that to all intents and purposes the walkout is over.

Wishes Obeyed
Mr. Roosevelt's wishes—that the strike end and the WLB handle the controversy according to procedure adopted for all wartime labor arguments—thus were obeyed. The President made it plain Thursday when he demanded an end to the strike that the WLB was not to be by-passed despite Lewis' aversion to this agency.

In his final crack at the board, Lewis said:

"These little strutting men of the WLB have sought to place upon the miners the responsibility for this work stoppage, which rests actually on their own smug shoulders."

"Fearful lest a solution be reached under auspices not compatible with the self importance of the WLB, that body on Wednesday maliciously commanded that these negotiations cease forthwith. This piously arrogant attitude is consistent with their earlier unlawful directives forbidding collective bargaining negotiations except under their capricious auspices."

The board had served notice on the President that it felt the government's whole labor policy was at stake in this fight.

Secretary Ickes assured Lewis the mines would be operated to safeguard the union's rights. He also reminded the U. M. W. chief of the WLB's ruling that the men should get a $30 boost in vacation allowances, plus the eight to 15 cents a day they'll save by companies paying for certain equipment such as cap lamps. These concessions go into effect immediately.

Tames Anti-Strike Law
The abrupt climax of the crisis took some of the wind out of congressional sails on an anti-strike law which breezed through the house yesterday, 231 to 141. The legislation, prescribing fines and jail sentences for union leaders instigating a wartime strike against government-operated industry, or using union funds to finance such a walkout, probably will be modified in joint conference.

One senator, however, Eastland, a Mississippi Democrat, said he thought Lewis ought to be jailed. He said the mine chieftain's "wringing" is 100 times worse than crimes for which death is the penalty.

With two members absent or not voting, the Ohio delegation voted 13 to 8 in favor of the anti-strike bill. The Ohio vote:

Republicans for—Brown, Carson, C'venger, Elston, Griffiths, Hess, Jeffrey, Jenkins, Jones, McGregor, Rowe, Smith, Vorys.

Republicans against—Bender, Bolton, Brehm, Lewis, Ramey.

Democrats against—Crosier, Kirwan, Feighan.

Republicans absent or not voting—McCowan, Welch.

EXTRA FINISH ON CATTLE EXPENSIVE

COLUMBUS, June 5.—Ohio farmers were urged today to forego attempts to put extra finish on cattle despite high prices on the Chicago stock market.

L. P. McCann, animal husbandry specialist at Ohio State university, asserted present price ceiling did not permit packers to pay sufficient premium for highly-finished cattle to make it worth farmers' efforts.

"The cost of putting gains on fat cattle increases progressively, making the last pounds the more expensive," he explained.

He added that because concentrates were scarce and high priced, farmers should pasture cattle to lower protein food requirements. After pasture grass matures, protein should be fed cattle along with grain, McCann said.

Stocker and feeder cattle averaged 14.70 a hundredweight on the Chicago market last month and 13 in May, 1942. The price on feeders last month was higher than those paid for beef cattle in recent years.

ARGENTINE BREAK
MAY HELP ALLIES

United Nations Looking for Signs of Pan American Solidarity

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
The outstanding point of interest for the Americas in the Argentine revolt is whether it will make for Pan-American solidarity—especially as regards support of the Allied war effort and post-war reconstruction—and the way things look it seems likely that the new regime will have that tendency.

This revolution, like so many of the intriguing South American upheavals, conceals more than it reveals to the outside world. There are many points which aren't yet clear and we shouldn't jump to conclusions.

Headed by Solid Citizens
However, one remarks cautiously that the revolutionary government appears to be headed by solid citizens who are trying to escape from what they charge has been a reactionary attitude on the part of President Ramon S. Castillo not only towards foreign relations but domestic affairs. It's no secret, of course, that his insistence on maintaining diplomatic ties with the Axis—last of the Americas in this category—has made other Pan-American governments regard him coldly.

Undoubtedly foreign relations figure heavily in the calculations of the revolutionists. They appear to feel that their country has been playing an isolationist role to her own disadvantage.

In this connection I hazard the guess that the straw which broke the camel's back was the fact that this great country received no invitation to the recent United Nations conference dealing with post-war food problems. The Buenos Aires newspaper Critica on May 17 was outspoken in condemning Argentina's absence from this vital discussion.

Apart from the question of principle, involving Argentina's stand in the war, her financial and trade interests have been involved heavily. Also, because of her "neutrality" stand she hasn't been eligible for lease-lend aid, and has seen her neighbors improving their military position through this assistance.

Then there is, I believe, another important aspect of the revolt which doesn't appear on the surface. The revolution strikes me as being marked with the "leftists" swing which we are seeing in so many countries. By that I don't refer to a radical movement, but to a definite turn away from control by vested interests. Castillo's opponents claim that his government stood for those interests.

Hotbed of Axis Spying
If the new government brings Argentina into the Allied fold it will be a boon for the United Nations. Ever since the war started the Argentine has been a hotbed of Axis spying.

Raymond Lavalle, former Argentine consular-attache in Tokyo, announced in New York on April 18 that he had resigned from his country's foreign service in protest against its neutrality. He declared "the Argentine has been the eyes and ears of the Japanese government in the western hemisphere."

Moreover, Germany and Italy cushioned the shock of the war blockade with a small but steady flow of money and materials from the Argentine. German controlled firms in the Argentine transmitted to Berlin every possible cent of profits through neutral points. Germany's neutral neighbors increased manifold their purchases of Argentine products, and none disputed that many of these goods were related to the Axis countries.

One result of the revolution may be to release a flood of pent-up criticism of the Castillo government. Since December 16, 1941, he had ruled under a state of siege "of a preventive character," which forbade criticism of the government's foreign policy.

BIG AERIAL DRIVE
ON JAPS LOOMING

Army, Navy turn Attention
To Acquiring More and More Bases

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A gigantic aerial drive against the Japanese appeared in the making today with attention of both the navy and army turning toward more and more bases for a continuing series of bombing raids.

"The trend of war for the immediate present seems to be a battle for air bases," said Artemus Gates, assistant secretary of navy for air who has just returned from a 27,000-mile tour of the Pacific fronts. Navy Secretary Knox nodded agreement at a press conference yesterday.

Gates' statement followed an assertion by Knox in discussing the capture of Attu that all sites for airfields there were being studied and that work on one field started by the vanquished enemy already was under way.

Secretary of War Stimson has said that capture of Attu from the Japanese a week ago put American forces within bombing range of Japanese territory.

Gates, discussing aerial warfare in the South and Southwest Pacific, said:

"Airpower will be used more and more as time goes on. The size of the air forces in the Pacific area will continue to increase."

Asked whether additional airfields had been established or captured in the Pacific area, he said he could not comment beyond saying "I can't imagine we are standing still."

The navy's latest report on the Attu fighting listed 342 United States soldiers killed as against Japanese losses five times as great. Knox said that not a ship or a sailor was lost in the landing of American troops there.
